Southern Historical Association

LACS/SHA Newsletter Fall 2013

From the President...

Guided by the skillful leadership of the Latin American and Caribbean Section's past presidents, the Southern Historical Association has adeptly accommodated our participation over the past fifteen years. Especially given the influence of borderlands and multi-empire scholars like the first LACS president Kimberly Hanger, our U.S.-oriented colleagues have sympathized with the argument that borders between this country and its southern neighbors ought not extend into scholarship. And, those geographic borders themselves have histories. The heartening point is that we do not occupy a periphery, intellectual or otherwise.

When we meet next month in St. Louis, though, I think most people will agree that we'll have traveled to one of the South's peripheries. Looking back toward the city's pre-Louisiana Purchase history (its Latin American history), we find it peripheral at its very roots. A couple of under-informed French fur traders founded the city in the 1760s before learning that the territory had changed hands, folded into the Spanish empire. When Louisiana shuttled back to the French briefly, before Thomas Jefferson's big acquisition, the French didn't even bother sending a new governor. So the French governed while the Spanish were nominally in charge before the Spanish returned the favor. All before Lewis and Clark breezed through, leaving behind the city's marketing angle as gateway to the west (a moniker claimed by at least four other cities).

For our program, we'll largely direct our attention southward, though we have a compelling panel on Latinos in various parts of the U.S. Program chair Robert Smale has organized a roster of panels with an admirable range of thematic focus. We will discuss populism and state building, dynamics of racial difference, sexuality and body politics, spatial history, and more.

Go see all of those panels and come to the LACS luncheon, Saturday at 11:45. We are delighted to announce that Brodwyn Fischer (University of Chicago) will deliver the keynote, titled "Intimate Inequalities and Emancipatory Histories in the Brazilian Northeast: Recife, 1870-1900." We will also award three of our prizes: the Murdo J. MacLeod Book Prize, the Kimberly S. Hanger Article Prize, and the new LACS Dissertation Prize. The last, new this year, should become a durable LACS fixture. It was a great pleasure reading excellent dissertations by future MacLeod and Hanger prize-winners.

Treasurer's Report

Treasurer Matt Childs reports that LACS had 72 paid members as of mid-September. The LACS treasury holds approximately $7200. These numbers should go up as we get closer to the annual meeting in St. Louis and as members renew and program participants and prize submitters join.

Call for Nominations

Please feel free to nominate yourself or other worthy individuals (with their consent) for Vice President or for service on LACS committees. Send nominations to Matt Childs at childsmd@mailbox.sc.edu

2014 LACS Call for Papers

SHA Meeting
Atlanta, Georgia
November 13-16, 2014

Deadline: October 1, 2013

The Latin American and Caribbean Section (LACS) of the Southern Historical Association welcomes individual paper and panel proposals for the 2014 SHA meeting in Atlanta, November 13-16, 2014.

LACS accepts papers and panels on all aspects of Latin American and Caribbean history, including the fields of the borderlands and the Atlantic World. Panels and papers that highlight the connections between people, cultures, and regions are especially welcome.

Submissions should include a 250-word abstract for each paper and brief curriculum vitae for each presenter. We encourage faculty as well as advanced graduate students to submit panels and papers. Graduate students are eligible for the Ralph Lee Woodward Jr. Prize, awarded each year for the best paper presented by a graduate student in a panel organized by LACS.

Please note that the program committee may revise proposed panels. All panelists are required to be members of LACS. For information about membership, please visit the website at: <http://www.tnstate.edu/lacs/> or contact Matt Childs of the University of South Carolina at childsmd@mailbox.sc.edu. For more information about the Southern Historical Association, visit the website: <http://www.uga.edu/~sha/>

Deadline for submissions is October 1, 2013. Complete panels are appreciated, but not required. Submit panels and papers (with a preference for electronic submissions) to:

THE HISTORY OF LACS

About LACS

LACS was formally established in 1998, at the SHA meeting in Birmingham, Alabama. Founded in 1934, the Southern Historical Association is the professional organization of historians of the South, but also of those in the South. In recent decades it has perhaps become more recognized as the former, but through the European History Section and the Latin American and Caribbean Section, and the affiliated groups, the Southern Association for Women Historians (SAWH) and the Southern Conference on British Studies, it also supports the work of historians located in the US South whose research and teaching areas fall outside of the region in which they happen to be employed.

Although historians of Latin America, the Caribbean and the Spanish Borderlands have long been active in the SHA, particularly through the aegis of the Southeastern Council of Latin American Studies (SECOLAS, founded in 1954), the relationship has sometimes been an awkward one. LACS was established to formalize relations between historians of Latin America and the Caribbean, on the one hand, and the SHA on the other hand, and to secure a place for Latin American and Caribbean specialists at the annual meeting. The late Kimberly Hanger, a talented young historian at the University of Tulsa who played an important role in establishing the group, was elected its first president. Tragically, Kim died just a few months into her term, at the age of 37. Jürgen Buchenau of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, another key figure in the establishment of LACS, completed Kim's term in office and then his own term the following year. Jürgen later became the first LACS representative to the SHA Executive Council in 2002. The LACS representative was accorded full voting rights beginning with the 2005 meeting.

In addition to these and other founders of LACS, longtime SHA Secretary-Treasurer John Inscoe of the University of Georgia has been especially helpful in supporting LACS' participation in the SHA and advancing the exchange of ideas among historians of the US South and the historians of Latin America, the Caribbean and the Spanish Borderlands. For more on the history of LACS, see John Britton's piece in the September 2008 newsletter at the LACS/SHA website: <http://www.tnstate.edu/lacs/>
