Taking you a bit farther along in our everywhere-you-go series, this year's TENNESSEAN is devoted to the wonders and beauties of the State.

Popularly divided into East, Middle, and West Tennessee, all areas from which our students come, the State is noted for its agricultural and industrial produce. Some of its places of natural beauty are the Great Smoky Mountains, the eastern mountain border, the East Tennessee River Valley, the Cumberland Mountain Plateau, and the extensive forests which cover 30,000 square miles.

And while you are whiling away the time through the pages of the 1961 TENNESSEAN remember that everywhere you go in Tennessee a big percentage of the people you are likely to meet will be products of Tennessee State University.

Everywhere you go in Tennessee—East, West, or Middle—you will, not more than likely, but definitely, come in contact with students, former students, or future students of Tennessee State University.

Students are the mainstay of the University and Tennessee students are the reason for the University's very existence.

Tennessee State University students, no matter from where they come, by their numbers, their aspirations, and their choice of activities, chart the course of the University's curricular, post curricular, and administrative processes.

T E N N E S S E E

The tendency is to organize. However, the even greater urge, TO BELONG, prompts the ever-swelling majority of organizations at Tennessee State University. In this area there is something for everybody—social organizations, civic organizations, hometown clubs, departmental clubs—and Tennessee State University students are encouraged to join.

The Dean Cornwell murals, depicting the history of Tennessee, may be found on the walls of the State Office Building.

The twenty-four academic departments included in the four schools that make up Tennessee State University, base their curricula on the needs of students who matriculate at the University.

Everywhere you go in Tennessee there is indication that the State has joined the space-race. And not only has the State of Tennessee joined the space race but it has played a starring role on the jet-age scene since its very beginning. This fact about our State has had a very real influence on the institutions of higher learning here, not the least of which is Tennessee State University.

The influence can readily be seen in many of the course offerings of the University's academic departments, and we speak with pride and sure knowledge when we avow that the best possible training for future space-age specialists can be obtained right here on our campus.

Among the many activities about which people, everywhere you go in Tennessee, are talking are the workshops and conferences which use the facilities of the Tennessee State University campus year after year.

The learning which comes from these meetings is a two-way thing, with our students and faculty gleaning as much benefit from them as the visiting participants.

Reelfoot Lake in Northwest Tennessee, the State's only natural lake, is 14,000 acres of marvelous beauty.

Just as the activities on our campus seem boundless, so seem the outdoor activities available in the State of Tennessee. Everywhere you go in Tennessee there is ample opportunity to take advantage of boating, swimming, and fishing facilities of the bountiful man-made lakes around our State.

Everywhere you go in the State of Tennessee, or any place else for that matter, the prowess of our various varsity teams is known. Our sportsters have made names for themselves and for the University, both nationally and internationally over the years; but school year 1960-61 was an especially good year and one we might remember forever as "The Year of the Olympics," for though we have been proud to have Olympic participants for many years back, who can forget the incredible feats of Wilma Rudolph and Ralph Boston in the 1960 Rome-staged games?

Dedication

Founder of the famed Tennessee State University Concert Singers, our own beloved Marie Brooks Strange, University organist and professor of music, is remembered by most as the instigator of the idea of bringing the more cultural aspects of everyday living to our campus for our students to see, hear and enjoy. And now, a year after her passing, and because she is remembered, we lovingly dedicate the 1961 TENNESSEAN to a lady whose life was dedicated to culture — MARIE BROOKS STRANGE.

Nashville theatre-goers thrilled to the superb performance of the Washington University Players, Incorporated presentation of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" in the University Auditorium in January.

Tennessee State's first lyceum presentation of school year 1960-61 was the new Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater's production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

The Louis Johnson Dance Company brought this year's lyceum series to a delightful and fitting close with a Kean Hall recital the last day of February.

Coach Howard C. Gentry's Tennessee State University gridiron Tigers got off to a flying start by defeating the A.&T. College Aggies of Greensboro, North Carolina, 28 to 12 before a packed stadium in Greensboro. The Tigers continued their winning ways with a defeat over the Morris Brown College Wolverines of Atlanta, Georgia, by a score of 20-12.

As the season progressed the Tigers were plagued by numerous key injuries and had to compensate by shifting players and positions; but after hard preparation, the Tigers took on South Carolina State College of Orangeburg and plunged to a 60-0 victory.

Powerful Grambling College of Louisiana handed the Tigers their first defeat to the tune of 20-6. Capturing the victory over Central State College of Wilberforce 28-12, the Tigers had an open date and a week's rest before the encounter with the Jaguars of Baton Rouge, Louisiana's Southern University in the Buck-Deer Classic before a SRO home crowd. The Tigers came out second-best in the clash as the Louisiana team squeaked past the Tennesseans 7-6. Out for revenge the following week the Big Blue steam-rolled Lincoln University of Missouri 38-8; but were themselves soundly thrashed by the Texans of Prairie View College a week later, 21-0.

After a see-saw year of victories and defeats, the Tigers of Tennessee climaxed the season in front of partisan homecoming fans at W. J. Hale Stadium with a thrilling 25-22 win over Mississippi's Jackson State College.

COACH HAROLD HUNTER

By Marcellus D. Slater

Dropping their first game to the Jackson State (Mississippi) Tigers, Coach Harold Hunter's Tennessee State Tigers clicked with 18 straight wins before bowing to Southern Illinois by a score of 91-89. Meeting the Illinois team again in the Quincy Invitational (NAIA) held at Quincy, Illinois, the Tennesseans bounced back with a 95-93 win to cop tournament championship honors.

Capturing the Mid-Western tournament championship with a win over Central State (Ohio) 101-75, in Kean's Little Garden, the Tigers finished the season with the number 1 small college team UPI rating and were seriously considered for a berth in the National Invitational Tournament with the big boys. Tennessee's chances for participation again in the Kansas City, Kansas-staged NAIA tournament were spoiled when the Tigers lost in the district to North Carolina's Winston-Salem.

The Tigers, operating without the services of powerful mainstay Gene Werts, who was benched for the season for medical reasons, wrapped up the season with an impressive 24-5 record.

by GEORGE SPRIGGS

Glowing, bright-hued, word pictures have strained typewriter ribbons in trying to give accurate praise to the achievements of Edward S. Temple—coached Tigerbelles since that sun-splashed Olympic afternoon in Rome, Italy.

Four Tigerbelles blazed a new world's record in the four-hundred meter relay climaxing a history-making triple gold medals for Wilma Rudolph and six Olympic gold medals for Tennessee State University.

Since that day the world has been bowled over with the quiet equanimity and continued record shattering performances of Wilma, the Queen of the 1960 Olympics. In five indoor outings from New York to California, Will-'O'-the-Wisp Wilma continued to post new world times in each of her races. Off the indoor boards, banquet star Rudolph dazzled the grapefruit circuit-goers from Philadelphia's Christian Street YMCA to President J. F. Kennedy in the White House.

Runner up for the Sullivan Award, Miss Rudolph captured the Associated Press' Woman Athlete of the Year title, was named Teen-ager of the Year in Sports, one of Ten Outstanding Women of 1960 by MADEMOISELLE magazine and three European publications named her among the Ten Top Women in the World for 1960.

... Wilma momentarily lends the solidity of her back to Metropolitan Opera star Patrice Munsel for an exchange of autographs ...

At it again, Wilma mounts the podium to receive a first-place award at the Mason-Dixon Meet.

... And graciously gives her autograph to clamoring small fry.

RALPH BOSTON, Man of the Year

Men's Track

By "Chuck" Boddie

The Tennessee State University Men's Track Team won its fourth consecutive Mid-Western Conference in 1960. Sparking the Mid-Western victory was NAIA 100-meter champ John Moon and all-everybody's Ralph Boston in the hurdles, broadjump, and high jump. Along with them were the returning lettermen: sprinters—Roosevelt Smith, Anderson Hill, Edward Bell, John Thomas; half-miler—Rudolph Morgan; miler—Ed Burley; and pole-vaulter George Spriggs. Charles Boddie, Freddie Anderson, and James Prophet, all sprinters, made up the ranks.

But 1960 will long be a year to remember for all of the year's track team members in general and for Ralph Boston and Coach Ray Kemp in particular.

Bio-chemistry major Boston broke the oldest record in the track world just three weeks before the opening of the 17th Olympiad in Rome, Italy, with a 26'11 1/4" leap that erased Jesse Owens' quarter-century broadjump mark. The 1960 Olympic gold medal winner repeated his assault on the record book at the Rome-staged games when he again cracked a Jesse Owens-set Olympic standard with his 26'7 3/4" jump.

And Coach Kemp, after 14 years of successful coaching and finally experiencing the thrill of having "his boy" make good in the Olympics, retired from the track world to devote full time to teaching duties.

Boston gets his gold medal for a record-breaking leap

The Tennessee State University Tigersharks ended their 1960-61 season with a 6-1 record with two additional colleges, Hampton Institute of Virginia and Gallaudet of Washington, D.C., added to the list of opponents.

The Tigersharks sank Hampton in Tennessee State's pool 75-19, and in Hampton's pool 66-33, and defeated Gallaudet 58-33. Other colleges fanged by the Tigersharks were: Berea College of Kentucky, 58-37; West Virginia Institute in Tennessee's pool, 78-16; and in West Virginia's pool 67-23. The Tigersharks' lone defeat was at the hands of Muncie, Indiana's Ball State, 58-33.

Coach Thomas H. (Friend) Hughes added six freshmen to his squad: Osborne "Bugsy" Roy, Franklin "Florida Joe" Oliver, Ronnie "Groucho" Webb, Benjamin "Frank" Kersey, Jesse "Pig" Dansby, and Raymond "Sharkhead" Pierson, with upperclassmen James "Hi Fi" Bass, Cecil "Santa" Glenn, Leroy "Billy" Brown, Roland "Chat" Chatman, William "Bo" Vaughn, George "Dick" Haslerig, Cornelius Shelby and Robert "Fish" Jenkins completing the roster.

Co-Captain Clyde James, who set a new record in every meet during the season, was Tennessee's N.A.I.A. representative in March. Captain of the team is Meldon "Waco" Woods. John Maxwell is the team manager.

Coach Ray Whitmon engineered Tennessee State's diamond men through the 1960 baseball season with an impressive 10-4 win-loss record.

At yearbook press time it was apparent that although Tiger baseballers had lost approximately eight key men through graduation and other reasons, Coach Whitmon was optimistic for the 1961 season. This despite the fact that the full 1961 schedule loomed ahead for him and the Tigers without being able to count on the services of star pitcher Andy Earthman and the numbers one and two hitters for 1960, Arthur Smith and Ludie Wallace.

ZΦB

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority had its beginning at Howard University, January 16, 1920.

The objectives: Finer Womanhood, Program of Sisterly love, and Scholarship. These objectives have brought together women from all parts of the United States and some parts of Africa, who have similar taste and aspiration for high attainment.

Sigma Gamma Rho

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority was organized November 12, 1922, in Indianapolis, Indiana, by Mary Lou Allison Garden. The Sorority was incorporated as a National Collegiate Sorority, November 30, 1932. The First Chapter, Alpha Beta, had its chapter at Butler University, Indianapolis, Indiana. The first call for a National Boule was sent out by Soror Allison to be held at Indianapolis, December 22nd to 29th, 1952. Since that time, many Boules have been held.

The first Southern Regional Conference was held in May, 1938, on the Tennessee State Campus, Nashville, Tennessee. Slowly but surely Sigma Gamma Rho has grown, and we are proud to boast of the fact that we are the youngest National Collegiate Sorority.

The National Project of the sorority, "The Sigma Teen-Town," was created to aid Negro Youth and to aid in the prevention of delinquency.
