

Tennessee State University (TSU) Student Course Selection Guide – Fall 2020

TSU courses are delivered in one of three ways: on-ground, online/remote or hybrid. The following information is presented to assist you in making informed enrollment decisions for the Fall 2020 semester. These designation/conventions will go into effect after the “safer in place” initiative ends on August 30, 2020.

TSU On-Ground = A course that requires attendance in a traditional on-ground classroom setting and meets during regularly scheduled times:

o Instructional Method = Conventional Methodology (CON)

Online / Remote

TSU Online / Remote = A course in which time is spent in an online virtual environment. Classes are delivered asynchronously or synchronously:

Asynchronous instruction is true to the anytime anywhere format in that there is no restriction of time or place.

o Instructional Method = Web Asynchronous (WEB)

Synchronous instruction connects the student to the teacher and/or other students using real-time tools like Zoom and meets on scheduled days and times.

o Instructional Method = Web Synchronous (WSY)

TSU Hybrid = A course that requires attendance in both an on-ground classroom and an online virtual environment:

o Instructional Method = Hybrid (HYB)
