

Course Name	Faculty Qualifications Needed	Related Disciplines	Acceptable Alternative Qualifications
ECON 2010 Principles of Economics I	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Macro/Micro/Macro economics, Public Policy, International Economics	Significant professional experience in Economics including expertise in macroeconomic theory, fiscal policy, with monetary policy. Practical experience in global economic issues with teaching or applying economic methodologies in business or public policy settings. Relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
ECON 2020 Principles of Economics II	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Macro/Micro/Macro economics, Public Policy, International Economics	Significant professional experience in Economics including expertise in economic growth, Micro/Macro economics, market structure, with pricing mechanisms. Practical experience with domestic with international applications of economic theory, including environmental issues with their impact on markets. Relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
ECON 2040 Introduction to Statistical Analysis I	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Statistics, Business Administration, Data Analysis, Applied Mathematics	Significant professional experience in statistical analysis, including expertise in descriptive statistics, probability, probability distributions, statistical inference, with hypothesis testing. Practical experience in applying statistical techniques to business problems, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3000 Mathematical Economics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Applied Economics, Management Science, Mathematics	Significant professional experience in applying mathematical with statistical methods to economic with industrial problems, including expertise in using mathematics, economics, with accounting for management decision-making. Practical experience in economic modeling with analysis, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3020 Basic Econometrics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Econometrics, Statistics, Business Administration, Applied Economics, Statistics or Finance	Significant professional experience in econometrics, including expertise in classical linear regression models, the Gauss-Markov theorem, with methods for detecting with correcting issues like heteroscedasticity, multicollinearity, with autocorrelation. Practical experience with econometric modeling, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3050 Introduction to Statistical Analysis II	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Statistics, Economics, or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Data Analysis, Applied Mathematics	Significant professional experience in statistical analysis, including expertise in linear regression, multiple regression, analysis of variance, time series analysis, with forecasting models. Practical experience with survey sampling, linear programming, with decision-theoretic applications, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.

ECON 3110 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Micro/Macro economics, Business Administration, Applied Economics, Resource Economics	Significant professional experience in microeconomic analysis, including expertise in the price system, resource allocation, demand analysis,with production theory. Practical experience in applying microeconomic concepts to real-world businesswith economic problems, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3120 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in in the teaching discipline.	Micro/Macro economics, Business Administration, Monetary Economics, Public Policy	Significant professional experience in macroeconomic analysis, including expertise in aggregate demand, aggregate supply, employment equilibrium, price level, inflation,with deflation. Practical experience in applying macroeconomic theory to policy or real-world economic issues, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3200 Moneywith Banking	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Monetary Economics, Banking	Significant professional experience in moneywith banking, including expertise in the functions of money, monetary systems,with the roles of commercial bankswith the Federal Reserve System. Practical experience in monetary policy, the determinants of money supplywith demand, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 3300 Principles of Labor Economics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Economics, Labor Economics, Business Administration, Industrial Relations, Public Policy	Significant professional experience in labor economics, including expertise in the labor market, labor movements,with union historywith structure. Practical experience with labor problem analysis, industrial disputes,with labor legislation, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4100 International Economics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	International Business, International Economics, Trade Theory, International Monetary Economics	Significant professional experience in international economic analysis, including expertise in free trade, tariffs, commercial policy,with international monetary systems. Practical experience in applying international economic theory to policy or real-world business settings, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4150 Economic Development	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Development Economics, Public Policy, International Economics, Growth Theory	Significant professional experience in economic development, including expertise in economic growth theories, underdevelopment,with development policies. Practical experience in applying development economics in real-world settings, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4520 Urban Economics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Urban Economics, Public Policy, Regional Economics, City Planning	Significant professional experience in urban economics, including expertise in urban history, location theory, city growth,with addressing urban problems. Practical experience with urban policy, planning,with development issues, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses,with high-impact journalwith conference publications, will also be considered.

ECON 4600 Introduction to Business Intelligence	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Business Administration, Economics, or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in Business Intelligence, Data Analytics, or Information Systems.	Business Administration, Economics, Information Systems, Business Intelligence, Data Analytics, Strategic Management	Significant professional experience in business intelligence, including expertise in the strategic use of information for business purposes. Practical experience in addressing economic, financial, technological, legal, with political issues related to information systems, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4700 Managerial Economics	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Economics, Business Administration, Managerial Economics, Business Strategy, Applied Economics	Significant professional experience in applying economic theory to business decision-making, including expertise in profit objectives, demand forecasting, cost analysis, with capital budgeting. Practical experience in business management with decision analysis, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4800 Current Economic Problems	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Economics, Public Policy, Applied Economics, Economic Development, International Economics	Significant professional experience in analyzing current economic problems, including expertise in economic progress, economic justice, with the analysis of issues such as economic growth, inflation, unemployment, public debt, income maintenance, with international economic affairs. Practical experience in addressing economic policy issues, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
ECON 4910 Internship	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Applied Economics, Public Policy, Business Practice	Significant professional experience in Economics or business practice, including hands-on experience in government, business, or industry settings. Practical experience in mentoring with supervising students in applied learning environments. Relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications in the field will also be considered.
ECON 4980 Independent Study	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Applied Economics, Public Policy, Research Methodology	Significant professional experience in Economics or related fields, including expertise in supervising independent research projects with coordinating student-led studies. Practical experience in mentoring with guiding students through complex topics with research, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
FINA 3045 Personal Finance	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics, Accounting, or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Personal Finance, Financial Planning, Investment Management	Significant professional experience in personal finance, including expertise in financial planning, investment strategies, budgeting, with managing personal resources. Practical experience in advising individuals on financial decisions, as well as relevant certifications such as Certified Financial Planner (CFP) or similar credentials, will also be considered.
FINA 3300 Business Finance	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics, Accounting, or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Personal Finance, Financial Planning, Corporate Finance, Investment Management	Significant professional experience in business finance, including expertise in financial goals, ratios, capital budgeting, leverage, with cost of capital. Practical experience in asset management, dividend policy, valuation, with mergers/reorganizations, as well as relevant certifications (e.g., CFA, CPA) with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.

FINA 3400 Finance Markets with Institutions	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance or Economics in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Financial Markets, Banking	Significant professional experience in financial markets with institutions, including expertise in market regulation, flows of funds, with intermediation. Practical experience in understanding the major sectors of money with capital markets, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA, FRM, or licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
FINA 3600 Investment Theory	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance, or Economics in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Investment Analysis, Portfolio Management, Financial Planning	Significant professional experience in investment theory, including expertise in investment valuation, risk-return analysis, price behavior, with portfolio management strategies. Practical experience in managing investment portfolios with applying investment techniques, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA or CFP, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
FINA 4450 Commercial Bank Management	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance or Economics in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Banking, Financial Management	Significant professional experience in commercial bank management, including expertise in the organization with administration of commercial banks, balance sheet management, with managing loans with investments. Practical experience in banking operations, financial analysis, with risk management, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA or FRM, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
FINA 4500 Corporate Finance	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Corporate Finance, Financial Management, Investment Analysis	Significant professional experience in corporate finance, including expertise in optimizing sources with uses of funds, managing corporate asset with financial structures, with employing sophisticated financial analysis techniques. Practical experience in corporate financial strategy, capital budgeting, with risk management, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA, CPA, or other finance-related credentials, will also be considered.
FINA 4550 Corporate Assets Management	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Corporate Finance, Asset Management, Financial Strategy	Significant professional experience in corporate asset management, including expertise in valuation concepts, capital budgeting decisions, working capital management, with mergers with acquisitions. Practical experience in asset valuation, strategic financial decision-making, with corporate restructuring, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA, CPA, or other finance-related credentials, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
FINA 4600 Security Analysis with Portfolio Management	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Investment Management, Portfolio Analysis, Financial Analysis	Significant professional experience in security analysis with portfolio management, including expertise in fundamental with technical analysis, security valuation, with the capital asset pricing model (CAPM). Practical experience in portfolio analysis, management strategies, with advanced financial models, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA or FRM, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.

FINA 4700 International Finance	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance, Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	International Business, International Finance, Business Administration	Significant professional experience in international finance, including expertise in the balance of international payments, financing international trade, foreign exchange markets, with the role of foreign departments of banks. Practical experience with the financial challenges businesses face in international markets with their implications on global finance, as well as relevant certifications such as CFA, FRM, or other finance-related credentials, with high-impact journal with conference publications will also be considered.
FINA 4910 Internship	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance, or Business Administration in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Finance, Business Administration, Applied Finance, Corporate Finance	Significant professional experience in finance or business, including hands-on experience in government, business, or industry settings. Practical experience in mentoring students with supervising internships, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications in the field will also be considered.
FINA 4980 Independent Study	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	Business Administration, Applied Finance, Financial Strategy, Investment Management	Significant professional experience in finance, including expertise in mentoring with supervising independent research projects with guiding students in investigating specialized finance topics. Practical experience in providing individual studies, conducting financial research, with coordinating student-led projects, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
INBU 4980 Independent Study	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Finance or Economics in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	International Business, Business Administration, Global Economics, Business Strategy, International Trade	Significant professional experience in international business, including expertise in coordinating with supervising independent research projects on international business topics. Practical experience in guiding students through specialized international business studies, conducting research, with providing mentorship in the field of international business, as well as relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications, will also be considered.
INBU 4910 Internship	Earned Master's or Doctorate degree in Economics or Finance in the teaching discipline; or Master's or Doctorate degree with a concentration in the teaching discipline with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the teaching discipline.	International Business, Business Administration, Global Economics, International Trade, Business Management	Significant professional experience in international business or global markets, including hands-on experience in government, business, or industry. Practical experience in mentoring with supervising students during internships with providing on-the-job guidance. Relevant professional certifications, licenses, with high-impact journal with conference publications in the field will also be considered.